Set Free in Madagascar

Ester Razafiharisoa lives in Antananarivo, Madagascar. She attended church, but lacked a real relationship with Jesus Christ. "There was no change in my life," she said. "What I heard about God made no impact on my life."

When her 15 year old son was arrested and falsely accused of raping a 15 year old girl, Ester began to seek God. She turned to Radio Vaovao Mahasoia where she heard a World Mission Broadcast (WMB) program hosted by Pastor Richard Ravelomanantsoa.

Ester called the program and spoke with Pastor Richard. "I told him about my family's problem. He told me that God has a wonderful plan for me first and for my family also."

Pastor Richard led Ester and her daughter to Christ and urged them to trust that the truth would set her son free. While he was in jail, he too was led to Christ, and a short time later he was released when the girl admitted she was coerced into falsely accusing him.

Now a new Nazarene church has been planted in Ester's neighborhood and her son serves as the youth leader and Ester leads a small group.
